

Give one opinion. Get one tapnudge credit.

A simple participation loop that rewards users for giving feedback before asking for more.

Simple explanation

The tapnudge credit system is designed to keep feedback balanced. Every time someone gives an opinion by voting on a nudge, they earn a tapnudge credit. That credit can then be used to create a new nudge.

Core line: Give one opinion. Get one tapnudge credit.

Why credits exist

Credits encourage participation before creation. Instead of only posting and waiting for responses, users are nudged to help others first. This creates a healthier feedback loop where giving opinions and receiving opinions are connected.

How it works

- Vote on a nudge.
- Earn one tapnudge credit.
- Use earned credits to create more nudges.
- The more people contribute feedback, the more they can ask for feedback.

Press-friendly wording tapnudge credits are participation credits, not a financial currency. They are used to encourage a give-and-get feedback economy inside the platform.