

Short boilerplate press blurb

Ready-to-use language for journalists, editors, launch posts, and app coverage.

One-line blurb

tapnudge is the fastest human sentiment engine for asking questions, sharing opinions, and getting quick feedback from real people.

25-word blurb

tapnudge is a social feedback platform where people ask, vote, validate ideas, and learn what others think through fast human sentiment.

50-word blurb

tapnudge is the fastest human sentiment engine. It helps people share opinions, ask for quick feedback, get second opinions, and validate everyday decisions through real human input. Built around quick prompts called nudges, tapnudge makes it easy to ask the world what it thinks.

100-word blurb

tapnudge is the fastest human sentiment engine: a social feedback platform where people ask questions, share opinions, get second opinions, and learn what others think. Instead of slow surveys or one-way posts, tapnudge is built around quick prompts called nudges that invite people to respond quickly. Users can ask for feedback on ideas, trends, choices, personal decisions, creative work, products, and everyday questions. It is a place where people with shared interests give and receive feedback, validate decisions, and tap into real human sentiment before deciding what to do next.

Preferred descriptors fastest human sentiment engine social feedback platform quick feedback from real people second opinions at internet speed ask, vote, validate